

Partner Program

Overview of the Association County Commissioners of Georgia

Formed in 1914 with 19 charter county members, today ACCG serves as the consensus building, legislative action and training organization for all 159 county governments in the state.

Georgia's counties constitute the direct membership of ACCG. This membership includes more than 800 county commissioners as well as appointed county clerks, managers, administrators and attorneys who actively participate in ACCG programs.

Why should I become an ACCG Partner?

Networking. Through ACCG's Partner Program, private companies and organizations are able to forge lasting relationships with their local government counterparts through networking opportunities, meetings and conferences ACCG holds throughout the year. Currently, more than 120 outstanding organizations, doing business in Georgia, have partnered with ACCG to reap the benefits of working together with their public sector counterparts on matters of vital interest to all Georgia citizens.

Opportunities. Active ACCG Partners keep county leaders informed about the products and services available to them; in turn, county officials know where to look when they are ready to make a purchase.

Visibility. Whether it's through conversations, recognition in the Georgia County Government magazine, vendor participation at the Annual Meeting, or visibility on our website - we make it a goal to promote our Partners!
